

State of Grace Contemplation

“Blessed are they who are persecuted for the sake of righteousness (God orientation), for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven.”

Sometimes we are told that to be spiritual we must renounce the world. But it doesn't seem to really work that way at all. We don't have to renounce the world. You'll find the world renounces us.

We do not have the same values as the “world.” We are persecuted because we do not follow in lock step the current “modernism” narrative.

Over the last number of years God has been removed from public square. God is not spoken of in polite conversation. People are afraid to express their faith. Children in college can be expelled for “triggering” another student when talking about their spiritual beliefs and values even if they are just being overheard in a hallway.

In not surrendering to popular modernism and its norms, we have and keep the greatest gift of all – the Kingdom of Heaven – the Peace of His presence within. The world's approval is merely temporary, empty glitter in contrast to God's Love within.
